AN UNFAIR CHAIR? — A labor leader, Morris Pizer of the United Furniture Workers of America, chided President Kennedy (above) because his famous rocking chair was made by non-union workers. Pizer claims that "a rocker made by union labor is a great deal more comfortable" than a non-union one. The occupant of the rocking chair had no comment.

Plans Started for Additional Shelterhouse at Lewis Park

The Circleville Park Board today announced that plans are under way to erect a third shelterhouse in Ted Lewis Park, directly across the road from the main shelterhouse, but several hundred feet back.

The services of Payne F. Freshwater, partner in the architectural firm of Freshwater - Harrison & Associates, Columbus, have been offered free to draw up the shelterhouse plans.

Freshwater is a native of Circleville, born on E. Union St. In addition to drawing the plans for the Berger Hospital addition, he has drawn plans for a number of city residences.

Initial funds for the shelterhouse were donated by Ted Lewis last fall. The famed musician contributed $1,000 toward a permanent construction in the park named after him. Park Board officials and Mayor Ben H. Gordon, Northridge Road, agreed on at third shelterhouse.

State Senate Set for Look At New Budget

Only 15 House Votes Support Governor as Deep Cuts Are Made

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Senate budget hearings will begin in earnest Tuesday now that the $2 billion money bill to cover state operations and subsidies for the next two years has passed in the House.

The bill went to the Senate Thursday by a 116-15 vote, against a background of the statement three weeks ago by Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, that "we are going to cut, and cut plenty, in the Disalle budget."

Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle expected a fight on his big money bill which passed the Republican - controlled House only after GOP members beat down all 10 floor amendments offered by Democrats.

The Democrats — all but 15 of them finally voted for the bill — tried to restore nearly $20 million worth of the $26 million in budget cuts made by the House Finance Committee.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved a proposed constitutional amendment to give senators authority to fill vacancies in their own ranks. If it gets House approval, the amendment would go before voters next November.

The constitution now provides that in a case of a legislative vacancy, a special election shall be called by the governor — which he seldom does because of its high cost in metropolitan counties.

Amendment sponsors point out that if a senator resigns or dies during the first month of his 48-month term, his district could be without representation for the next 47 months.

The amendment would permit senators of the same political party as the person who held the office to name a successor by a majority vote.

Who Else Has A 'Dirty Run'?

FRANKLIN, W. Va. (AP) — Residents of this community are up in arms today over word that the council is preparing to change the names of several streets.

It's not that they don't like the names proposed by the council—"Dogwood Lane" and "Walnut Street"—they just prefer to see traditional names remain.

After all they say, its not every town that has a "Dog Alley" and "Dirty Run".

Lancaster Probes Theft of Jewelry

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland jewelry salesman reported to police the theft of more than $10,000 worth of diamond watches and rings from his motel room here Thursday night.

Lawrence Asherman, a representative of Columbia Diamond Ring Co., Jamaica, N.Y., told police he left his room at the Main Motel at 7:30 p.m. to go eat. When he returned an hour later, he said, his sample case, which he had hidden in a shower stall, was missing.

Patrolman William Shoemaker theorized that Asherman had been followed for some time, probably by two thieves who waited for the right moment to strike.

Brazil's Rejection of Anti-Castro Thesis Is Stinging Blow to America

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazilian President Janio Quadros has dealt a stinging blow to Washington's effort to enlist Latin America against the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba—and at a time when the United States is gathering up a massive lump of aid money for Brazil.

In a diplomatic note Wednesday night defining his government's position toward Cuba and the hemisphere, Brazil's new neutralist-line president made clear he wants the United States to keep hands off Cuba.

He also made clear that he does not regard the Castro regime as a member of the Communist bloc, as the United States does.

The question now is how many other South American nations will take Quadros' viewpoint. If many other key nations do, any U.S. effort for collective hemisphere action against Cuba seems doomed.

Brazil's position on Cuba, as explained by Foreign Minister Afonso Arinos, is to oppose any foreign intervention, direct or indirect, be it military, economic or ideological.

This could be applied to Red China or the Soviet Union. But the tone of the Brazilian note was clearly against any U.S. intervention.

Quadros took this stand despite growing pressure from the Roman Catholic Church, big segments in Congress, intellectuals and the press to put Brazil on record in opposition to what many here consider a Communist regime in Cuba.

But Quadros is also aware of northeast Brazil—a tremendous area of impoverishment that has starved while the country's ruling class waxed fat.

Washington, finally alarmed at the threat of a Castro-type revolution in northeast Brazil, is preparing to send several hundred million dollars worth of aid to Quadros to help that section. U.S. officials have emphasized that Quadros would get the money no matter what position he took on Cuba. But they obviously expected him to stay on the fence at least.

He didn't. But until he can start pouring U.S. dollars into the hungry, poverty-stricken backlands, he cannot take a stand that even appears to condemn Castro, the hero of the downtrodden masses of Latin America including Brazil.

New Congolese Setup Urged

Central Government Proposal Offered

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Coquilhatville political conference today published its first constitutional proposals, calling for a tightly knit Congolese federation with a strong central government.

The constitution would cover all the old Belgian Congo, including Katanga Province and the Lumbumbi Oriental and Kivu provinces. Neither Katanga nor the rebel Stanleyville regime of Antoine Gizenga is represented at the conference.

Politicians at the conference—all loyal to President Joseph Kasavubu of the central government—propose to establish a "Confederation of the United States of the Congo." Its capital, Leopoldville, would become a federal district such as Washington, D.C.

The constitutional proposals were presented as a committee report to the full conference, now ending its third week of deliberations in the Congo River town of Coquilhatville.

Because the arrest of Katanga President Moise Tshombe left only Kasavubu's supporters at the conference, political analysts here reserved judgment about the constitutional proposals to see whether they have any chance of effective implementation.

Ostensibly, the proposals continue the work started last March in a round-table conference in Tananarive when the idea of a Congolese confederation first was advanced.

Since then, however, the central government has grown cool to the idea of a structure which would deprive it of considerable power and put effective authority into the hands of provincial leaders.

That tendency caused the independent-minded Tshombe — long opposed to the central government — to walk out in disgust, only to be arrested and charged with high treason.

Aid-to-Reds Measure Splits Ohio Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's Democratic senators were at odds in the voting Thursday as the Senate passed, 43-36, a bill giving the President discretion to aid Iron Curtain countries if he thinks it will enable them to loosen Moscow's controls. Sen. Stephen M. Young favored the measure. Sen. Frank J. Lausche voted against it.

53 Illinois Counties Battle Against Continuing Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern Illinois river towns battled the worst floods in 20 years today in the most serious overflows across Midwestern valley lowlands in six states.

Fifteen counties in Illinois, all in the southern region, have been listed as disaster areas. But Gov. Otto Kerner has appealed to the Office of Civil Defense to declare 53 counties, covering most of the southern half of the state, a major disaster area.

Although Illinois appeared the hardest hit by the spring floods, water from rain-fed rivers and streams covered broad sections of Missouri, Arkansas, Indiana, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The floods have driven thousands from their homes. The muddy waters, covering thousands of acres of farm land, have taken a heavy toll in property and crop damage—estimated at millions of dollars.

Generally clear weather prevailed again today over most of the flood-stricken region as well as in most other parts of the country. It was fairly mild in most sections.

In the Southern Illinois flood belt, extending from Madison County on the Illinois-Missouri border to Lawrence County on the Illinois - Indiana line workers toiled around the clock to shore up levees.

A record flood crest bore down on Murphysboro, a southwest Illinois city of 8,600, threatening power and water service. The big Muddy River, expected to crest at 39.5 to 41.5 feet, pounded a wall of 6,000 sandbags protecting the city's power station. Waters

New Lake Shore Contract Offered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Union bus drivers and mechanics will vote on Lake Shore Coach Co.'s new contract proposal which averted a possible strike today against the firm.

The tentative agreement between union and company negotiators was reached Thursday but terms were not disclosed. The old two-year contract expired midnight Thursday. It covered about 65 drivers and 16 garage mechanics. They had voted to strike unless an agreement was reached.

Lake Shore and its associate company, Muskingum Valley Transit, operate about 40 buses daily to such points at Circleville, Chillicothe, Lancaster, Logan, Newark, Zanesville, Wheeling, W. Va., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

from the flooded river surrounded the municipal water plant.

Across the state at Carmi, Red Cross officials readied a large-scale plan of evacuation of many of the town's 6,200 residents if the rising Little Wabash River breaks through. Railroad cars and a river towboat barge were ready to remove people, livestock and personal belongings if the levee cracks. The river hit a record 38 feet.

Women Rated As Better Space Drivers

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Women may be better drivers than men in outer space.

Of course, its still a little far fetched. But if the day comes when people are driving vehicles in orbit around the earth, tests at the Martin Co. give the edge to women.

The company has been simulating space flights for more than a year as a project for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"Drivers have flown millions of miles in outer space from a room in the Middle River Plant. One test is operation of controls to bring two space craft together on a television screen.

This is in anticipation of the future when stations or fuel depots may be necessary for space travels.

"We find that women usually catch on to the space rendezvous controls faster than men, E. E. Clark, director of advance programs for Martin, said today.

"They usually come alongside the other vehicle in their first or second try.

"Somehow the secretaries get the manual feel of space driving immediately. Possibly they concentrate on the simple maneuver with no side thoughts on the scientific problems involved.

Clark, perhaps self consciously, hastened to add men have no real trouble either with manipulating a space craft. At least, on the simulators.

Britain, Russia Disagree on Arrangements

Cochairmen at Odds On Which Faction To Attend Conference

GENEVA (AP) — Foreign ministers of Britain and the Soviet Union failed today to agree on arrangements for a 14-nation parley on the future of Laos and decided to postpone formal opening of the conference. It had been scheduled to start today.

Britain and the Soviet Union—co-chairmen of the conference—were unable to reach an agreement on which delegation should represent Laos at the table. The United States had refused to sit down for the talks unless this question was settled.

The United States had accepted a report from the truce commission in Laos that a cease-fire exists.

A spokesman for the British delegation said he still hoped the conference could start Saturday—but even that is not certain. The official spoke after British Foreign Secretary Lord Home held an hour-long conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

When the conference was called, Britain had said Laos would be represented by a coalition formed by the Western-backed royal government in Vientiane, the pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas, and Prince Souvanna Phouma, considered by the Communist bloc countries as the legal premier.

Since the cease-fire was proclaimed last week, however, the Vientiane government and the U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk met with Lord Home and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville to discuss developments.

Rusk was to meet later today with Gromyko, co-chairman of the conference with Lord Home.

An American official said the truce commission—composed of representatives from India, Canada and Communist Poland—agreed unanimously in a report late Thursday night that there has been a general and demonstrable halt in the fighting.

Local outbreaks are still in evidence, the truce supervisors reported, but they said there is no way of controlling them.

Havana Claims U.S. Carrier's Jets 'Threaten'

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Havana Radio quoting its correspondent at Santiago de Cuba, said today an American aircraft carrier had fired several shots within two miles of Playa Siboney, near Santiago.

The radio said five jet planes took off from the carrier and made "threatening flights" over Playa Siboney, which is about 40 miles due west of the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

The radio called this "another act of Yankee imperialist aggression."

The broadcast, monitored here, did not mention the name of the American carrier allegedly involved.

U.S. Officials, Skeptics Debate Russian's Orbit of Earth

NEW YORK (AP) — Did Yuri Gagarin really orbit the earth to become the world's first space-man?

U.S. officials and scientists in the best position to know say they are sure he did, and on that basis President Kennedy cabled congratulations.

But skeptics raise a chorus of doubts and cite numerous reasons.

Moscow itself could stifle all skepticism, by supplying records, witnesses, and details of the flight to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale (FAI) in Paris which authenticates aviation and space world records.

On April 12, Moscow wired the FIA the names of the pilot and spacecraft, the Vostok, and said a space flight had been made.

The telegram gave no other details but did say supporting evidence would be forwarded within the required time limit of two months and eight days, said an FIA official who asked not to be quoted by name.

But to have claims authenticated, say aviation experts, Moscow would have to describe the model and type of spacecraft, the engine or engines, special apparatus aboard, the landing controls and the date, time and place of lift-off and landing.

It is highly debatable whether Moscow, which always has kept records for altitude without earth orbit (115 miles) and for greatest mass lifted without earth orbit (3,000 pounds).

Well, did Gagarin go, or go when he's said to have gone? Looking at all available information, including that from U.S. tracking stations, there's no doubt the flight was made, says James Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Still doubters talk on such points as these:

1. The landing: Reports conflict whether Gagarin parachuted from his capsule, or landed inside the capsule. On Wednesday of this week he said he returned to earth in his spaceship. The landing spot is not pinpointed.

2. Some London newspapers carried stories suggesting Gagarin's flight was made several days before April 12. One, the Communist Daily Worker, said an astronaut had orbited the earth three times on April 7, and was under medical care.

But Dr. Hugh Dryden, NASA deputy director, said: "We would have known if they had put up a satellite (before April 12) and they did not."

Izvestia denied a report that Vladimir Ilyushin, son of the famous Soviet airplane designer, had been seriously injured in a space flight before April 12. It said he was in Hangchow, China, recovering from a serious leg injury incurred way back last June in an auto accident in Moscow.

3. Some say the Soviets would never talk about a dangerous flight while it was in progress, for fear of embarrassing failure so Gagarin must have been back when he was reported to be in flight.

A counterargument is the Soviets would never gamble on being caught in a hoax which could be uncovered, especially through the U.S. tracking system, of which the Soviets are well aware.

4. Gagarin said he saw a beautiful view, and gave details. But a Soviet rocket chief, A. A. Blagonravov, at a space meeting in Italy, said Gagarin's ship had a port-hole. Later, he retracted, saying the Soviets had several types of spaceships, and he wasn't sure which had been used.

In Washington when Sputnik I went up, Blagonravov made several statements about that satellite which conflicted with official Soviet reports. Gagarin said he had a port-hole. Izvestia on April 24 said his ship had three port-holes.

On this and other points, London observers commented. Some seeming contradictions may not be real, because Westerners often assume that any statement made is a final and definite Soviet version. But in the excitement, its possible that the first Soviet accounts could contain errors, or that their scientists could misunderstand some information they were getting second-hand.

5. How could Gagarin's voice be heard all around the world, as one Moscow report said?

Soviet reports, say the New York Times, described a radio-telephone system with two short-wave channels, with at least one of them being usable on "most of the orbit". And Gagarin's words at times could have been tape-recorded for play-back when he was within range of a Soviet ground station.

U.S. officials don't question the flight, apparently partly through data gathered by a far-flung tracking system, some of whose operations are still secret.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—It sounds bigger and better than it says.

Fifteen NATO allies—including the United States—met two days in Oslo and then issued a statement which has been variously interpreted as vowing to meet the Communist push around the world.

It said the partners "reaffirmed their resolve to meet (the) challenge" of the Communist bloc's attempt to extend its domination "over an ever-increasing area." Read it fast and it sounds rough and rugged.

But meet the Communist challenge how and where? That's the key question. But the statement was blank on an answer.

House Bill Of Interest To Veterans

James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans' Service officer, reported today that the House Veterans' Affairs Committee is considering a bill (HB 5723) which is of vital interest to all veterans who have not received a GI loan.

The bill, if passed, would revitalize the VA direct loan program and extend terminal dates of VA direct and guaranteed loan entitlement periods for large numbers of World War II and Korean conflict veterans.

The extension of entitlement periods, Shea said, would be based upon the individual's length of service.

This is the first time, in veterans' housing legislation, that a phase-out plan is prescribed on the basis of the length of the veteran's service, any part of which must have been in wartime.

ANY qualified World War II veteran will have VA direct and guaranteed loan entitlement to July 25, 1962, at least, but in no case beyond July 25, 1967. For Korean veterans the earliest terminal date is January 31, 1965, but in no case beyond January 31, 1975. This means, said Shea, that no World War II veteran or Korean veteran will lose entitlement before the earliest dates cited herein.

The new bill would give World War II and Korean veterans a blanket entitlement period of 10 years from date of honorable discharge or separation. For each three months service they are given an additional entitlement of one year. Thirty months service would add up to 10 additional years, or a total of 20, and so on. The accumulated total, added to the date of discharge, will determine the end of entitlement, except for the earliest and latest dates set forth above.

A World War II or Korean veteran who was discharged or released from active duty "for a service-connected disability," incurred in wartime service shall, regardless of length of service, have entitlement until the closing dates indicated above.

Since the Allies avoided being specific, the Russian can conclude they were too unsure and divided to get down to cases. Thus the Communists, whom the statement obviously intended to impress, probably were left unimpressed.

The foreign ministers of NATO—whose military forces were created to defend Western Europe—certainly didn't say anywhere in the communiqué they would try to stop communism anywhere outside Europe by force.

They were a little more specific when they talked of economic aid to areas outside Europe. Here their statement said: They "gladly accept" the challenge of helping the less developed areas of the world to raise their social and material standards.

On one point the Allies were so clear and forceful the Russians could not misunderstand their language. This was their pledge to defend West Berlin against any Russian effort to seal it off from the West.

Yet, even though their language was clear, the Soviets still may doubt the Allies in a showdown actually would risk war over Berlin which, while linked to the West, is still 100 miles inside Communist East Germany.

The Western partners seem to be expecting pressure soon from Premier Khrushchev against the city. If the test comes and they back down it will make their alliance a joke.

Except for the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt in 1956—which the United States told them to call off in a hurry—the Allies haven't shown any eagerness to risk a war outside Europe for a long time.

In 1954, for instance, when the North Viet Nam Communists smashed the French in Indochina, the Allies not only didn't dash in to bail out the French but let half of Indochina fall to the Communists.

True, the United States stood firmly by its promise to defend Formosa against Red Chinese invasion, but it has backed away from getting directly involved militarily in Laos which, in a matter of time, also probably will fall to communism.

It still isn't clear whether this country or its allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization will intervene directly to save South Viet Nam from the Communist guerrillas who are chopping it up now.

As this is written in the spring of 1961 it isn't at all clear where the NATO allies, together or in part, would be willing to stick their necks out by stepping in directly to stop a Communist take-over.

Wiretap Law OK is Asked

U.S. State Police Need Is Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Justice Department official Thursday urged Congress to legalize telephone wiretapping by federal and state police agencies and to permit the use of wiretap evidence in criminal trials.

But, Herbert J. Miller, head of the department's criminal division, said such authority should be accompanied by strict safeguards against invasion of privacy.

Miller urged the subcommittee to separate from wiretap legislation the problem of controlling the use of other electronic eavesdropping devices. He said his department is studying this problem now and will come up with some proposals for separate legislation.

Miller said the present system is "intolerable." He said federal law enforcement agencies now tap wires but are not allowed to use the evidence in courts.

He said state laws authorizing wiretapping in criminal investigations have been clouded by a series of Supreme Court decisions.

He said the Constitution itself for evidence and there is no reason to give greater assurance of privacy to telephone trunk lines. "It is a strange anomaly which allows spies and professional criminals to profit from science by carrying on espionage and racketeering through conversations which would be impossible without modern communications, while it forbids the government to obtain and use evidence of those same conversations to run down the spies and criminals to bring them to justice," Miller said.

Spring Spreading over Ohio; Ma Nature Needles Wildlife

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mid-spring is spreading over Ohio, and Mama Nature having herself quite a time.

The southern hills are putting on a show with their flowering white dogwood and pink redbud dotted among the sumac and evergreens; morel mushrooms are plentiful for the seekers of that delicacy; a female muskie gave up two quarts of eggs and 100,000 potential young; goggle-eyed ducks are back from the southland; and love-sick game, ignoring danger during courtship, need a "break" from motorists.

Division of Forestry fieldmen say Pike, Jackson and Ross counties are at the peak of their springtime beauty—a sight you can't afford to miss.

The morel, or sponge mushroom, season is at its peak in central Ohio, and is gradually moving north. In early season they are found in the sun-drenched open, later in the dense woods. The season last about two weeks, and many outdoorsmen, ignoring the fishing and hunting seasons, take their vacations at that time.

The mother muskie which gave up the two quarts of eggs was a 45-inch 25-pounder netted at Rocky Fork Lake in Highland County. She was returned to the water after the eggs had been fertilized with milt from a male muskie netted earlier. The eggs are being hatched at the Kincaid fish hatchery at Latham and 100,000 young ones are expected.

Last year game managers applied nasal discs, in different color, to a number of young ducks before releasing them. The discs resemble spectacle, and the sites. The plan was part of a project to establish local breeding populations, and wildlife managers were encouraged this week when several returned from the southland to the spots near Chillicothe where they had been tagged.

The love-sick game deserve a paragraph of their own.

The road kill of rabbits, pheasants and other wildlife is reaching a seasonal peak, now that warmer weather is here.

During the mating season all species lose much of their natural caution, saunter across highways and fall victim to fast-moving autos.

"Be careful, watch out for love-sick wildlife," the Ohio Division of Wildlife urges motorists. "Every female killed on the highway means a reduction of several pheasants or rabbits when hunting season roll around next fall."

Inclement weather during April was reflected in the comparatively few fish caught. And also in the comparatively few fishermen caught—without licenses. Last year, during April, 45 unlicensed fishermen were arrested. This year the figure skidded to an even dozen.

April did its part, now it's up to May to make the old "April showers bring May flowers" adage come true.

Castro Impresses Reds

Bucked up by victory over insurgent invaders, the Castro regime is counting on big developments in Cuba following this display of strength.

On the theory that the Cuban people themselves might not be loyal to the Castro government, the Soviet Union and Red China may have withheld the economic aid they intended for Cuba if it proved to be a safe investment.

There are reports Moscow and Peiping now are convinced the investment to be safe and they will shortly begin adding impressive economic aid to the military support they have been pouring in.

Communist aid probably would be in the

Compulsory Compliance Possible

Proponents of changes in the Taft-Hartley Labor Act are expected to introduce various proposals for the creation of new presidential powers in case of labor-management stalemates affecting national industries.

They argue that injunctions authorized under the act hold disastrous work stoppages in abeyance only for a few months, but there is no government-imposed remedy for a stalemate after that period has elapsed.

Government imposition is indeed the phrase to watch as proposals are submitted to "correct" this shortcoming. Among those previously mentioned are compulsory arbitration with government arbit-form of development funds designed to help Castro build Cuba along communist lines with some hope that the living standards of the Cuban people could be lifted.

If the United States should thwart that program by sea blockade, the reds might resort to tedious and costly air transport. That could be met only shooting the planes out of the sky — an act of war.

Castro's partnership with Moscow and Peiping is not going to be easy to counter. The best hope seems to be that the fruits of it will be slowed to a trickle and that the resulting impatience of the Cuban people will topple the dictator.

rators empowered to make binding decisions, temporary government seizure and operation until a contract is signed and fact-finding boards authorized to make recommendations.

These proposals have one common ground—government regulation of industry, the employees or the country. They are suggested as solutions to industrial strife which could prove costly to large segments of the population.

The cost of removing the two principal parties from the bargaining table, however, is not included in these strange calculations by persons imbued with the complex that only through government are solutions possible.

It has changed, the days don't mean what they used to.

Every day then had its own special character, but the weekend days were especially notable.

SOMEbody ONCE REMARKED to Benjamin Franklin that the Constitution of the U.S. was a booby trap. “Where is all the happiness it is supposed to guarantee for us?” jeered the cynic. “Look at the bickering, the injustice, the poverty.”

Franklin smiled tolerantly and replied, “All that the Constitution of the United States guarantees, my friend, is the pursuit of happiness. You have to catch up with it yourself.”

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.

Are you spending valuable dollars to stock up on rich red blood, only to find your stock as watered down as ever?

Blood cell manufacturing is big business — inside your body, too. Raw materials have to come in through the intestines main gate and flow continuously into the production set-up.

Your blood thins out when production slows or the need increases.

Iron, vitamins, protein and other essential raw materials may be left off the menu and never shipped. Without stomach juice's special pass, they may be stopped at the intestine's front gate. An intestinal traffic jam may detain shipments past the main gate and prevent their arriving at the production line.

Inside the plant, a broken-down liver may not be able to store raw materials until they're needed. Alongside the liver, the spleen — Chairman of the Board — may swell and order a temporary shut-down.

Infection or poisoning may leave the bone marrow too pooped to participate in blood cell production. Criminal cancer elements may invade the marrow and tie up the works.

Excessive waste may set production quotas too high for ordinary marrow. You may have to replace blood gushing from a large artery or replace small losses such as a heavy menstrual flow.

You may not see the lost blood if it's used to feed intestinal hookworms or if you bleed internally. Oddly-shaped red cells often explode inside your blood vessels, leaving you with pale anemia and yellow jaundice.

Like an efficiency expert, your doctor examines you and your blood cells to pinpoint the trouble and prescribe a remedy. Pale, iron-lacking cells hardly resemble the large dark cells that suggest troubled stomach juices. Other tests may uncover hookworms, hemorrhage and other hidden causes of anemia.

Now You Can Help Pay Off National Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a gift giving mood? Feeling sorry for Uncle Sam because of his burdensome $288 billion national debt? The House is out to help you.

By a voice vote it passed a bill Wednesday to authorize the government to accept gifts of money or other property to be used specifically to reduce the debt.

The money, or proceeds from sale of other gifts, would go into a special account used to retire government obligations.

Under Commie Surveillance

I hold in my hand a registered letter, similar to hundreds or thousands — who knows — that have been sent to Hungarians living in the United States. The stamps on each envelope give evidence of a very expensive mailing. The letter I have shows that the Communists in Budapest have the addresses of Hungarians in the United States in detail.

I cannot read Hungarian but it is obvious from the pictures that this is a propaganda magazine. On page one are some girls who obviously have been told to smile because all but two of them look as though they have learned to say, “cheese.”

The question that bothers me is how the Hungarian Communists got the addresses of all the Hungarian refugees in the United States. It is even possible that the Hungarians who are receiving this propaganda are now American citizens. Is the Post Office of the United States to be used to put pressures upon persons living within the United States? Hungarians in this country are incensed at receiving these unsolicited papers and many do not read them. They throw them away or use them to line garbage cans. Nevertheless, they wonder at the policy which permits propagandistic swill to be sent in freely by registered mail.

They particularly make the point that this is unsolicited material. It is different if one subscribes to a publication, pays for it. Under such circumstances, to withhold the publication is to interfere with freedom of the press. One is entitled to read what he chooses to read. But when one is snowed under by unsolicited mail, he ought to be able to have some action taken against a nuisance.

The Hungarian government is clearly committing a nuisance.

The Hungarians could not have had all these names and addresses unless they maintained a large and efficient espionage system in this country. Neither the State Department nor any other agency of government is entitled to cover up for spies on the ground that we do not wish to have bad relations with a country. If we catch a spy, we ought to shoot him or expel him. It would be preferable to shoot a few, although the history of espionage is that there are always spies no matter how many are killed.

Apparently all the refugees in this country are under surveillance by spies who seek to exercise a power over them. Why those spies are permitted to operate is not readily explainable except that our laws give them an advantage that does not exist in any other country. I look at the wrapper before me. I am authorized by the recipient to reproduce it:

How could this magazine get this address in such minute detail unless someone in the United States compiled a list? It takes time, labor and expense to bet up such a list of hundreds or thousands of persons scattered all over the United States. Who does this job?

The time is rapidly coming when the United States will weary of such semantic expressions as Cold War and will recognize that war has many different devices and that World War II never ended but has continued in different forms.

A distinguished statesman said to me:

“You know that the American people do not want their sons killed in wars in Asia or in Africa or anywhere. This ties the hands of the President who undoubtedly feels that should he insist upon upholding American rights, he would find himself without popular support.”

This is a point of view but it is not good enough because it turns this into a nation of cowards. It is too early in our history to give up. The alternative to war is involuntary isolation and perhaps reduction to the paucity of a Soviet satellite.

Is this an extreme view? What of those who were two years ago denying Castro's connection with Soviet Russia? What about “The New York Times” which supported Castro as an opponent of a wicked dictator?

The time has come to face the realities of a tragic situation and to stop hoping that things will work out. Misadventure — like politics and policies will not save us from defeat. It takes courage to meet adversity and it has been a characteristic of our people to be courageous.

DESERT CRASH—All 69 persons aboard, including five Americans, were killed when a Brazzaville-to-Marseilles Air France Super-Constellation crashed in the Sahara. The Americans reportedly were the wife, mother and children of Alan W. Lukens, charge d'affaires of the U.S. embassy in Brazzaville.

MRS. BENJAMIN LEMASTER JR.

Miss Donna Jo Hardman, daughter of Mr. and Mr. Donald Hardman, Route 1, Laurelville, became the bride of Mr. Benjamin F. LeMaster Jr., son of Mrs. D. J. McCarty, Chillicothe, at a candlelight wedding April 29 at the Laurelville Church of God.

The Rev. Ralph C. Price solemnized the marriage. The altar was decorated with an arrangement of white snapdragons, chrysanthemums, gladioli and greenery and two seven-branched candelabras. Tall candle sticks with lighted tapers tied with white satin ribbon and ferns decorated the pews at the center aisle. The family pews were marked with pink satin bows. Preceding the ceremony a half hour of nuptial music was offered by Miss Patricia Stumbo, aunt of the bride, who sang, "Because," "O Promise Me," "Always," and "The Wedding Prayer." Mrs. Robert Butts was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin styled with a scalloped neckline, high at the front and dipping to a V at the back, and a bouffant skirt extending into a wide circular chapel train. Her fingertip veil was of silk illusion held in place by a beaded crown. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

She carried a white Bible on which was arranged a bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids, lily of the valley and white teardrop leaves inset with pearls and white tulips. Miss Judy Hardman was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a ballerina length gown of light green chiffon over taffeta. The dress had a fitted bodice, scoop neckline, brief sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her veil was matching velvet with an oval veil. She wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bride.

Miss Hardman's cascade bouquet was fashioned of yellow roses, white mums, lily of the valley tied with green bows. Bridesmaids were Miss Phyllis Fortner, the bride's cousin, and Mrs. Melony Moore. Their ballerina length gowns were pink chiffon over taffeta and both wore matching headbands of pink velvet with oval veils.

Fashion details of the gown were a fitted bodice, scoop neckline, puffed sleeves and bouffant skirts. Their pearl earrings were gifts of the bride. Miss Fortner's bouquet was a cascade of sweet scented viburnum, earlephalum and entwined with lily of the valley and tied with pink satin bows, while Mrs. Moore's was of white and pink rose buds entwined with lily of the valley and tied with pink satin bows.

Pink cotton lace frocks with matching pink velvet headbands were worn by the flower girls, Karen Sue Hardman, sister of the bride, and Bettina LeMaster, niece of the bridegroom.

They carried wicker baskets filled with rose petals which they dropped on the white carpeted aisle in the path of the bride.

Mr. Lynn Summers was best man for Mr. LeMaster. Ushers Dr. Canned asparagus and dice; add to scrambled eggs or a plain omelet.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

She Wants a Mind-Reader!

DEAR ABBY: I recently went to a physician who has a reputation for being tops in his field. The doctor hardly looked at me, but he spent a full thirty minutes asking me questions.

Now I think a doctor who claims to be good should be able to find out what is wrong with a patient by just giving the patient a good through examination. What's your opinion?

ANNNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: Next time go to a veterinarian. He is the only doctor I have ever heard of who can make a diagnosis without asking questions.

DEAR ABBY: While my husband was asleep, I went through his pockets to change a $5.00 bill to pay the milkman. I found a pink envelope addressed to him at a hotel where he recently stopped on business, marked "hold for arrival." I read it, Abby, and the more I read, the sicker I got. That love letter would make a cheap novel look tame.

I said nothing, but kept the letter. I've watched him search his pockets and brief case frantically. I know he's looking for that letter, but I have said nothing. I can't look him in the face I detest him so much. We have young children to raise and I won't divorce him. But what am I going to do? I can't stand for him to touch me.

SICK AND DISGUSTED

DEAR SICK AND DISGUSTED: Tell your husband you found the letter and let him take it from there. The air needs to be cleared, and it's up to you to make the first move.

DEAR ABBY: I have a nosy neighbor who is getting me down. She tells me all the neighbors' business and I am not even interested. She tries to find out my business so she can spread it around. She has asked me how much my income is and where it comes from. (I am a widow.) She has asked me what time I get up in the morning and what I had for lunch. She's asked why my married children haven't invited me to live with them or why they don't live with me. If I am gone from my home for a few hours she demands to know where I've been. She is extremely persistent and I have had no experience in handling such a rude and offensive person. How can I put her in her place without being as rude as she is?

BEWILDERED

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Discipline in the Home

WHAT A FATHER SHOULD HIMSELF BE WHO DESIRES FOR HIS SON A SATISFYING AND HONORABLE LIFE

Scripture—I Kings 5:1-7; Proverbs 4:1-4; 10:1; 15-24; 20:11; 22:6; 29:17; Ephesians 6:1-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE THEME of this lesson, the importance of establishing a beautiful home life, is first illustrated with Solomon's resolve to carry out an important work planned by his father, David—a great temple to the Lord.

David had brought up his son with such loving discipline that his hopes were realized through his son. David had set a fine example of devotion to God, and Solomon, by this example, by training and by his own effort, had made him a proud father.

Solomon, in his proverbs, tells his own sons how important it is for them to learn from him, telling them that he had learned in turn from his parents. Then Solomon says he was "only beloved in the sight of hesitate to correct his children by punishment when they do wrong. The parent who merely lectures the child without enforcing his meaning is selfish, as William Arnot points out ("Peloubet's Select Notes"). The parent takes credit for being loving, at the expense of the child's character.

Yet it is equally bad to punish in anger, for when he corrects for something which is not a fault, but mere "impetuous playfulness," he can "crack the temper of his child for life."

This week's golden text points out the vital role played by the housewife-mother in our world. No one else has so much power and responsibility in forming our most valuable resource—fine character.

GOLDEN TEXT

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."—Proverbs 22:6.

(his) mother," he means that he was long known as God's chosen and was especially beloved, as T. T. Perowne points out in "Peloubet's Select Notes."

"A wise son maketh a glad father; but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother," says Solomon (Proverbs 10:1). The wise child makes his parents glad not only by his wisdom, but by having the wisdom (or love, or understanding) to put forth the effort deliberately to make his parents happy. Everyone should take the opportunity to show his parents as much love as possible—while he still has time to do so. Remorse is bitter for such lost opportunity after one's parents die.

Solomon also points out that the truly loving parent does not

Dr. G. C. Morgan has pointed out that what you want your child to be, you must be yourself; disciplining the child means primarily disciplining yourself, for he learns by your example.

It is in the home that the child learns the basic Christian truth—that his true happiness depends on making others happy. A home in which this truth is practiced has a beauty of spirit that even the casual visitor can feel. Children from such a home cannot help but spread the gospel of love.

Paul reinforces these teachings of Solomon in his letters to the Ephesians, wherein he urges children to honor their parents, and parents to "nurture" their young ones "in the chastening and admonition of the Lord." (Ephesians 6:4).

Judge Shelves Writ In Tobacco Tax Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus Pleas Court here has temporarily restrained state officials from subpoenaing the head of Sharwell Tobacco Co. while the Columbus firm appeals an assessment of nearly $1 million in allegedly unpaid state cigarette taxes.

Sherman Sharwell asked for the injunction after he was subpoenaed to appear in the state tax commissioner's office Thursday. At the same time, Sharwell filed a $1 million damage suit against the commissioner, Stanley J. Bowers.

Roman Catholic Canonization Ritual Is Lengthy Process

NEW YORK (AP)—When Philomena lost her sainthood a few weeks ago it surprised many Roman Catholics, as well as other, that what they considered an irrevocable title could be withdrawn.

It is true that canonization — the process of declaring a person a saint—involves an "ex cathedra" pronouncement by the Pope, which Catholics regard as infallible.

The fact is Philomena never was canonized.

There is no chance of the same fate befalling Sister Bertilla Boscarin, the Italian nun and hospital worker who was made a saint Thursday in the Catholic Church's regular canonization process.

The first papal canonization was in 993 when Pope John XV proclaimed Bishop Ulrich of Augsburg a saint, and to end the abuses Pope Alexander III in 1170 reserved the right of canonization to the Pope alone.

Still some bishops continued to authorize veneration of saintly persons in their dioceses and confusion continued. Many persons, like Philomena, since have had to be stricken from the rolls when evidence of their sanctity turned out to be dubious by later standards.

Finally in 1634 Pope Urban VII expressly prohibited all bishops from naming saints on their own, and the approximately 250 persons declared as saints by Popes since then stand no chance of being "unsainted."

The Catholic Church today follows a rigid process of canonization set up by Pope Benedict XIV in 1750.

The canonization process begins in the home diocese of the "Servant of God," as he is referred to throughout the procedure. The local bishop collects every shred of evidence available and sends it to the Roman Rota, the Vatican's "appellate court."

The Rota appoints an ecclesiastical lawyer known popularly as "the devil's advocate" to refute all the evidence the sponsor of the cause can produce. Often the evidence runs into volumes. The Rota then either approves or disapproves of submitting the case to the Sacred Congregation of Rites, a permanent commission of cardinals established in 1588.

In three successive meetings the cardinals discuss the subject's sanctity and virtue.

Three more meetings are held to establish the second requirement of sainthood—proof of miracles wrought through the subject's intercession after his death.

This is the greatest stumbling block because in the case of instantaneous cures of organic disorders at least two recognized medical authorities must testify the cure could not have come about naturally.

If two miracles are proved, the subject receives the title of "Blessed" and is allowed to be venerated in certain localities.

But two more miracles must be proved before the person can be canonized a saint. Again, the cardinals meet three times with the Pope attending the third meeting to make the final and irrevocable decree.

Bolton Is Boomed For Congress Seat

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP)—The West Lake County News - Herald said today Republican leaders in the 11th Congressional District are expected to draft former Representative Oliver P. Bolton to run again for the post to which he was elected twice before.

Bolton, 44, who publishes the News-Herald and two other newspapers retired from Congress at the end of 1956 after suffering a mild heart attack.

The News-Herald article, under the by-line of Erwin Maus III, said that according to party leaders "political pressures may force Bolton out of private life and into the congressional race in 1962."

The district now is represented by Robert Cook, Ravenna Democrat.

South-Central REA Is observing 25th Year

By DARWIN KINDLER, Manager

Last year marked the 25th Anniversary of the Rural Electrification Administration and the establishment of a program to provide loan funds for the electrification of rural America.

FIRST POLE IN — Here is the first utility pole installed by South-Central Rural Electric Cooperative in this area some 25 years ago. Many have followed since then in the effort to bring a new era in rural living.

Cloudiness persisted over most of Ohio Thursday night and light sprinkles continued until about midnight in the southern counties. At dawn today temperatures ranged from 54 at Toledo to 59 at Columbus and 63 at Chesapeake.

The mild weather is forecast to continue through the weekend and there's a chance of light scattered showers, mostly Saturday. Temperatures this afternoon will range from the mid-70s near Lake Erie to the low 80s along the Ohio River.

Winds on Lake Erie will be mostly from southeast to south today and Saturday at 20-25 miles per hour.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average 5-8 degrees above normal. Normal high 68-70, normal low 46-50. Warm until turning cooler about Tuesday, then warm again Wednesday. This year South-Central Rural Electric Cooperative celebrates the 25th year of its corporate existence and next year the 25th anniversary of its actual operation.

The first group of 288 members received service on December 23, 24 and 25 of 1937.

Many of South-Central's members today were still in school — a few were not yet born — when the organization came into being. For this reason it may be difficult for some of the younger people to fully understand the significance that the extension of electric service to rural areas had back in the late

Retired Eisenhower Boosts His Interest in Politics

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Republicans credited former President Dwight D. Eisenhower today with having become more politically minded in retirement than some of them thought he was in the White House.

It was old home week at Gettysburg, Pa., Thursday as Eisenhower played host at a five-hour conference to 20 of his Cabinet members and advisers. They had served with him at least part — and some of them all — of his 8-year tour of duty as President.

The unprecedented meeting, which started with a chicken luncheon, finally broke up late in the afternoon. Then, Eisenhower led his team out on the portico of the mid-Victorian mansion on the Gettysburg College campus that serves as his office.

There was a cheer from 68 college boys and girls — some of them raincoated and bearing umbrellas and some shivering in bare feet — who had stood for over two hours to see the man who was giving their college more publicity than any football ever could.

With an apology for the pelting downpour which fractured the tradition that he always carries sunshine around with him, Eisenhower stepped briskly to the microphone to tell rain-soaked newsmen clustering about the steps that all was harmony within his administration's wing of the Republican party.

The Republicans, he announced authoritatively, are going to be "completely bipartisan" in their attitude toward President Kennedy's handling of international crises.

He added pointedly, however, that the GOP is reserving the right to criticize at the appropriate time. But this was not the time he said, for divisive voices to be heard in the land.

Then, a reporter gave him an opening he seemed to be looking for by asking the former President what he and his advisers thought about the farm program 30's and early 40's.

IT IS not my purpose here to be nostalgic or to spend too much time looking backward. But sometimes it may be good, or at least informative, to relieve briefly the history and progress of the rural electric cooperatives. After all they do belong to the members, both the young and the old, and all of us should know as much as we can about it.

Most rural people 25 years ago lived without electric power. This meant that country people heated their homes with coal or wood, cooked on a coal range, washed clothes by rubbing them on a wash board, pumped water by hand and depended on ice or the spring

Jury Convicts Slayer In Triangle Affair

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — A Trumbull County Common Pleas Court jury Thursday convicted Elmer W. Wood III, 23, of Warren, of first-degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of William Terlecky, 41. Wood had been indicted for second-degree murder.

Judge G. H. Birrell set sentencing for next Wednesday and continued Wood's $20,000 bond pending possible appeal. Terlecky was shot last Oct. 9 at the home of estranged wife.

His group of advisers will meet with him from time to time to keep abreast of political developments. They won't try to dictate to the party.

All in all, his listeners came away with the impression that the former President, relieved of the burden of making national decisions, was turning with zest to the political field from which he sometimes seemed detached in his White House years.

house for what little refrigeration they had. There was no Willie Wirehand to help do the farm chores.

Life in the country was full of physical hardships and few town people thought of moving to the country to live or retire. The country was a good place to go to but not a good place to be from.

This was the background from which rural electrification was born.

Many electric utility people who were supposed to know, said the job could not be done. It would be too costly, they said, and the country people would never use enough power to make it pay.

At this point the farmers and other rural people said in effect, when they formed their electric cooperatives, "OK you say the job can't be done so we'll do it our way. We don't know enough about the business to say it can't be done, so we'll do it. So, the rural people of America built one and one-half million miles of line to serve themselves."

These are just a few of the facts which show the benefits brought about by rural electrification. There are many more.

In spite of the fact that the cooperatives, for the most part, serve only rural areas, rates for service compare generally with city rates and the trend is to further reduce them. Most electric cooperatives are active in the field of rural development to the end that better use is made of available resources and more gainful employment is created for people in the area.

We who are charged with the responsibility of operating these businesses are proud of their accomplishments. We can all hold our heads high when we say — "Rural Electrification is good for all Americans."

IT IS doubtful if the most ardent proponents of rural electric cooperatives back in 1936, ever envisioned the degree of success they have attained over the past 25 years. Not only has electric power

SCIOTO VALLEY

The recent meeting of Scioto Valley Grange was called to order by Worthy Master H. A. Bumgarner.

An appeal for aid from a family in Miami County was granted. A certificate was received stating the Scioto Valley Grange is a Charter Member in the Pickaway Council for Exceptional Children.

The organization of Juvenile Grange was discussed.

Scioto Valley Grange was host to Pomona Grange last Friday and on Sunday Rural Life Sunday Service was conducted by Rev. William Carter of Ashville when Nebraska Grange members were guests. Both were well attended.

Worthy Lecturer, Hal Richards turned the lecture hour over to John Dowler who showed slides of the Caribbean tour sponsored by the Grange. Among the many places of interest were Kingston, Jamaica, Caaca, Venezuela; St. Thomas and Panama.

Members were called to the dining room of beautifully decorated tables where the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Mae Payne, and her committee, served a delicious lunch which was enjoyed by all.

Memorial Service will be held at the next meeting, 8:30 p. m. May 23.

A good attendance is desired.

Electricity Used 450 Ways For Service to Farm, Home

Who would have guessed 25 years ago that we would ever find as many as 200 uses for electricity on the farm? Those were the days when seasoned electric company executives laughed as REA engineers predicted some day U. S. farmers might use an average of 90 to 100 kilowatt hours of electricity a month!

Use of electricity today has passed the wildest dreams of 1935. Researchers in the United States Department of Agriculture now point to more than 450 different applications of electricity on the farm and in the farm home.

These new uses and big step-up in the consumption of electricity on farms is part of American agriculture's move to mechanize and substitute power and machinery for human labor both on the farm and in the home.

There have been real changes made from the early days when home use of electricity was limited almost entirely to lighting, powering the washing machine, and pumping water. From air conditioning to automatic water systems, rural electrification has made it possible for farm people, too, to live better electrically.

IN FACT, there's little today that can't be done easier, quicker, and better electrically. USDA's list of uses for electricity in the farm home includes just about every conceivable household gadget under the sun.

There are burglar and fire alarms, fish bowl heaters, bed warmers, biscuit bakers, can openers, Christmas tree turners, cigar lighters, communication systems, deodorizers, dumb waiters, dust precipitators, fish scalers, flour sifters, fly traps, and foot warmers.

As you might suspect, electrical appliances and equipment used in the home outnumber those used in farming operations. This partly explains why three-fourths of all electricity consumed on the farm today is used in the home.

However, technological developments of electrical equipment and the ever-increasing new uses now promise to boost the use of electricity to undreamed of levels around the farm. New ways of handling grain, feed, hay, and even milk are fast antiquating the fork, shovel, milk can, and bucket.

Feed carriers, barn cleaners, silo unloaders, hay and grain dryers, mills, grinders, elevators, grainers, dusters, sprayers, fences, flytraps, milkers, e m e r y wheels, pumps, and fans, are only a few of the many ways electricity has replaced the hired man on the farm.

From molasses heaters to peach defuzzers, farmers are making new and varied uses of this unique and wonderful power that turns on and off automatically or at the flip of a switch.

FARMERS, faced with the problem of getting adequate help on the farm, are finding new "electrical hands" a fair substitution for the hired man. In fact the symbol of rural electrification is a loveable little character called Willie Wire-hand. Plenty of ever-ready electrical power, ready at the flip of a switch to be converted into light, heat, or power is a must for the widespread automation of work around the farmstead.

For instance, a single worker today in Georgia handles 30,000 broilers with ease. Another man in Florida cares for 10,000 laying hens and the 7,500 eggs they shell out a day.

A hothouse method of soilless farming in Illinois produces a ton of succulent green forage annually in a space only 2 1/2 feet square.

A dairyman in California, using a double herringbone milking parlor and pipeline milker, can milk as many as 60 cows an hour, nearly 10 times the number that could be milked by hand.

A livestock farmer in Indiana pushes buttons and pulls switches and feeds 400 steers and 500 hogs in 10 minutes. This is a job that would keep five men with oaks and forks busy for a half day.

These efficiencies in farming have been made possible through the magic of rural electrification. Benefits pass on to urban consumers in terms of a bountiful supply of sanitary, high quality food products that literally jam the grocery shelves.

ANNUAL average power consumption by farm consumers on rural electric lines, as recent as 1958, stood at 3,816 kilowatts. On the basis of present-day increases, average farm consumption is expected to reach 5,600 kilowatts by 1963, and 10,800 kilowatts by 1975.

One thing sure, as more and more farmers turn to pushbutton operation of their farmsteads new uses and wider uses of electricity about the farm and rural home lie ahead.

Actress Says Reventlow Marriage Solid Despite Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Jill St. John-Lance Reventlow marriage has passed the one-year mark against all odds-makers, the orange-tressed actress says.

"I don't believe that stuff about Hollywood being the same as any other town," she commented. "Marriages are shorter and of tinner here, and I can see one reason why. Everyone seems so eager to break up a marriage."

"I firmly believe that columnists have revolving files that they bring out periodically. 'Jill and Lance ought to be fighting by now,' they figure, 'so let's run an item about it.'"

And do they fight? "Certainly," she replied. "We fight like cats and dogs. But that doesn't mean we're going to get a divorce. And we never fight in public, so nobody has any grounds for making rumors about us." The fights can be on any subject. "Trouble is, Lance is so darned logical, so he's hard to argue with," she added. "Now I'm using the same technique, and we end up glaring at each other."

One factor has contributed to their normalcy: Lance has given up sports car racing.

"He says I'm responsible, but I didn't really pressure him," Jill remarked. "He came to the decision himself, after watching a number of races last summer. In one of them, four drivers were killed. He realized as a husband he shouldn't take such risks."

"He still builds the cars and tests them. There isn't much danger when you're the only driver on the track."

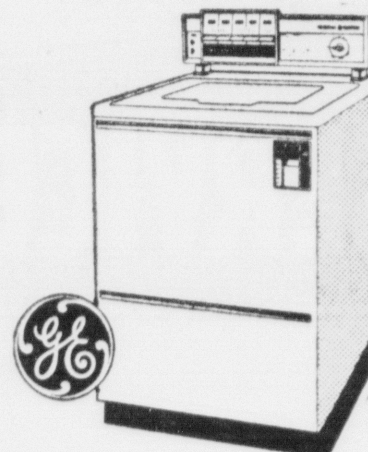

What is life like for this pair of young marrieds? Sailing their yacht, flying their plane, skiing in Sun Valley, surfing in Honolulu. Their idyll was interrupted for three months while she made a film in England. She leaves this week for "Tender is the Night" in Monaco.

South Central Rural Electric Coop CELEBRATES FIRST 25 YEARS

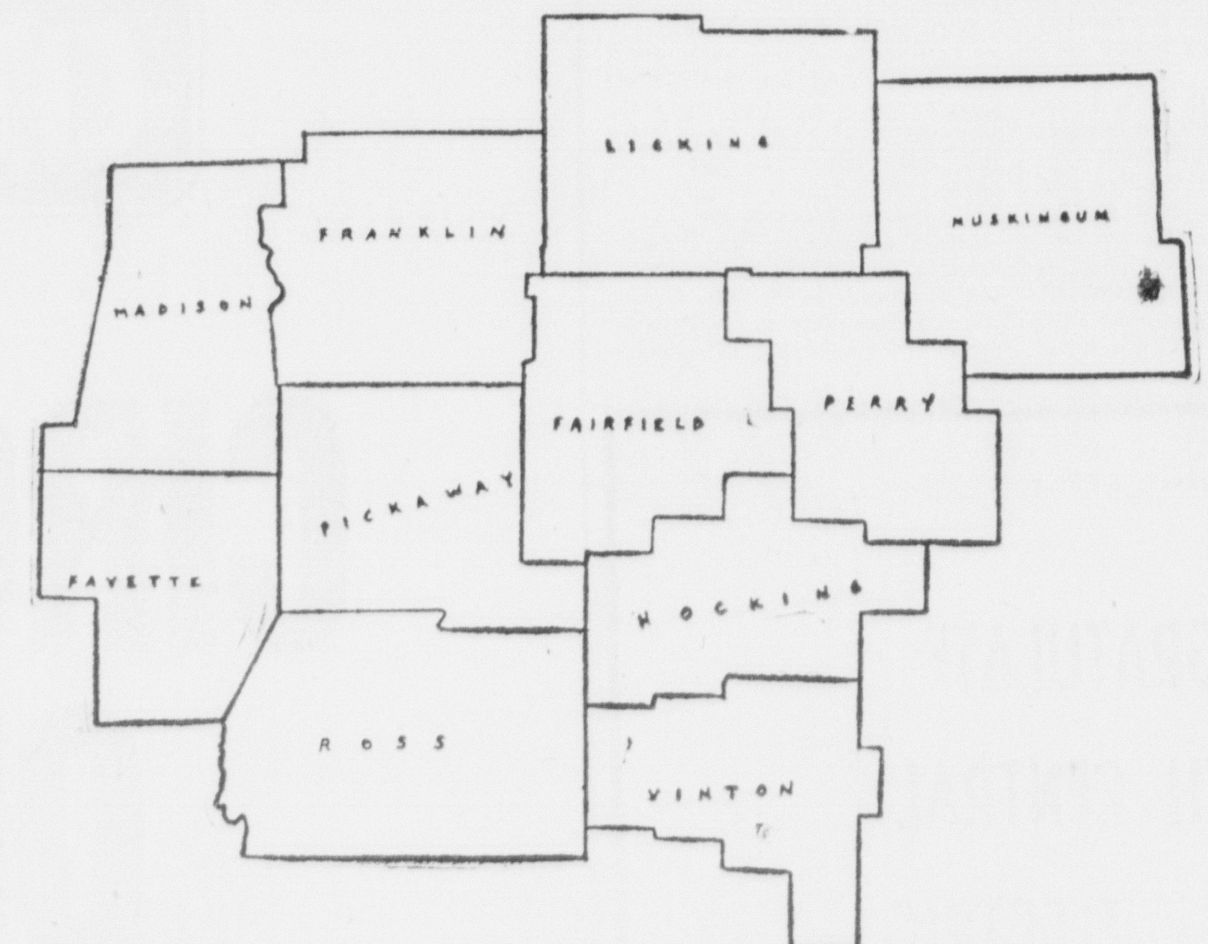

It is next to impossible for people who have grown up with electric lights to imagine the deep emotion felt by rural families when their homes were first electrified . . . but it's not only the rural folks who have benefited from the efforts of South Central and other rural electric systems throughout the nation in the past 25 years.

In central Ohio, South Central has invested $5,000,000 in poles, wire, transformers and other electrical equipment plus much more in our community — on a national scale rural electric users have spent $14 billion for appliances and equipment.

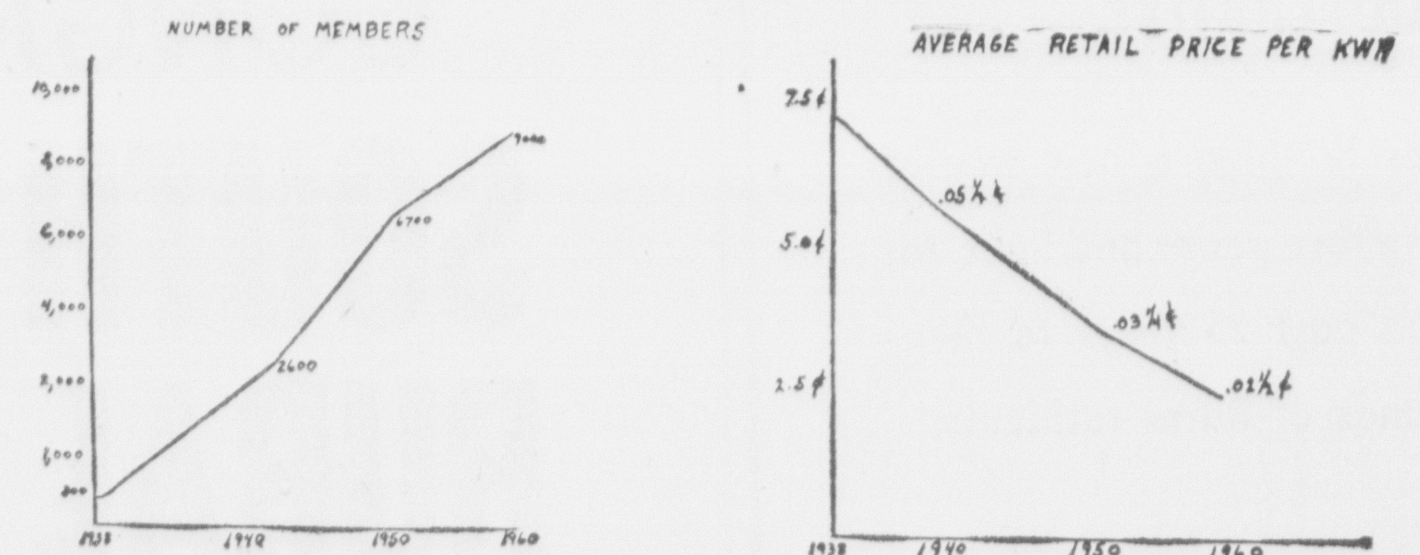

That's why we say "Rural Electrification" is good for ALL Americans.

Electric Use Is Doubled Every 7 Years

Rural Folks, Others
Benefit by Way of Nationwide Systems

It's not only the rural folks who have benefitted from the efforts of South Central and other rural electric systems throughout the nation.

In Central Ohio, South Central has invested over $5 million in poles, wires, transformers and other electrical equipment. Annually, South Central pays over a quarter of a million dollars in payroll and legal, engineering and accounting services.

Nearly a half-million dollars is paid to the Ohio Power Co. and Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. each year for wholesale electrical energy. Another quarter of a million dollars is spent each year for all the things that are needed to keep the business going—everything from paper clips (at 100 for a dime) to line trucks (costing as much as $20,000 each when fully equipped).

According to the latest survey of users, South Central members have paid area merchants over $30 million for appliances, electrical equipment and wiring supplies.

THESE expenditures have created payrolls and jobs in local and distant factories.

On a national scale, rural electric users have spent $14 billion for appliances and equipment. There's no doubt about it; this "new market" has created thousands of jobs for workers in our towns and cities.

That's why South Central says "Rural Electrification" is good for Americans!

Boy Slayer Absent from Father's Rites

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Robert H. Tweed, 16, who told authorities he shot his father to protect his mother, was not allowed to attend his dad's funeral Thursday.

Tweed has been charged with first-degree manslaughter in the shotgun slaying of his father Monday. No date has been set for arraignment.

The boy is being held in juvenile detention in Ross County jail. He was refused permission by Juvenile Court Judge Kenneth T. Stevens to attend his father's funeral Thursday. He was permitted to view the body before services.

Officials said both Robert and his mother bore marks of beatings the father had administered.

Young Tweed, his mother, Mrs. Robert V. Tweed, and brother Gary, 14, all took lie detector tests at London Tuesday. According to Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, the tests indicated all told the truth about the shooting.

Khrush Says Reds To Win Against West

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev reassured his people once again today that communism will win a peaceful competition with capitalism.

"We are certain of the superiority of Marxism and Leninism, the Soviet premier told a Communist party rally in Tbilisi (Tiflis), "and we are certain that this superiority will triumph.

He added immediately that it would be a peaceful triumph. "I repeat, he said, "that we are not going to achieve the victory with the aid of guns.

The party rally was in honor of the 40th anniversary of the establishment of the Soviet Republic of Georgia.

"Why do we tread on the heels of the United States of America?" Khrushchev asked. "They are richer than we are. Why is it that we are treading on their heels?"

Because, he answered, under communism all people have equal opportunities to study and to advance.

Khrushchev saluted the successful manned American space flight but said Yuri Gagarin's flight around the globe had not been surpassed, that the Americans had only made a "leap into space.

Workers Like Rural Life, Too

Although rural electrification is thought of as a program for farmers, many consumers are actually city workers who enjoy country living.

In 1960, South Central Electric served 1,225 families who classified themselves as non-farm rural residents.

Also in the non-farm category are public buildings, commercial establishments, schools and factories.

Kennedy Rests
On Eve of Canada Visit

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy relaxed today. The President flew down from Washington Thursday, planning on a minimum of work and a maximum of rest.

Kennedy starts an official, three-day visit to Canada Tuesday and another to France on May 31.

Mrs. Kennedy, who is going on both trips, is resting here, too. The two Kennedy children remained in Washington.

The President relayed word to reporters that all he has in mind is loafing beside a swimming pool and on the beach and shooting nine holes of golf a day at the Palm Beach Country Club. Two golfing companions, Christopher J. Dunphy of Palm Beach, and Charles Spalding New York banker, came down from Washington aboard the presidential jet.

The President left Washington in a steady rain and landed 2 hours and 12 minutes later in the sunshine at the West Palm Beach airport. He was on the golf course as soon as he could change to slacks.

The Palm Beach home of the Presidents parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, is closed for refurbishing. So the chief executive and First Lady are staying a mile and a half down the road at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman.

Wrightsmans is a retired oil man. His wife is a member of Mrs. Kennedy's committee on the fine arts.

SCREC Expands Steadily
Since Organizing in 1936

On May 14, 1936, M. G. Steely, D. W. Macklin and R. D. Head of Circleville and Alvin W. Barr of Stoutsville met in Circleville with representatives of surrounding counties and the Ohio Farm Bureau to officially organize the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative.

Reviewing those early days, Head, still a member of nine-man cooperative board of directors recalled, "Many people did not believe the cooperative would succeed. They thought the cooperative law did not fit us and many meetings had to be held in Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties before the people were convinced and bought memberships."

Now, a quarter-century later, the REC is a major factor in the Pickaway County economic structure, with its financial records listing transactions in the millions of dollars.

The first rural electric line strung in Pickaway County ran west on Route 22, and the first service was initiated at the Edward Wardell Party Home early in 1938.

MRS. WARDELL credits the REA program with enabling their family to modernize and expand their business.

Since then, over 2,000 miles of line have been added to the REA operation and 8,910 accounts were listed on subscription records as of March 31, with 1,777 of them in Pickaway County.

Use of electricity has risen from an average 53 kilowatt-hours-per-month in 1937 to an average of 445 kwh per consumer each month today.

In its 25 years of operation, the South Central REC has borrowed almost $6 million from the federal Rural Electrification Administration to expand its facilities.

Of that amount almost 2½ millions have been repaid on the principal and over $1 million in interest payments have been met. Over one-quarter million dollars has been repaid ahead of schedule.

On Dec. 31, 1960, outstanding indebtedness had been reduced from $6 million to $3½ million.

THE cooperative was established as a nonprofit organization and funds not used to repay loans or reinvested in the business become capital credit loans held by consumers. These loans will be repaid to the consumers in yearly installments when this becomes feasible.

Heading the REC operation is Darwin Kindler, manager of the cooperative since its inception. Kindler, 56, a native of Pickerington, worked with the late C. R. Breckenridge in mapping the first routes for service lines and securing enough memberships to organize the co-op.

Kindler supervises an organization that now employs 45 persons and has an annual payroll in excess of $325,000.

Looking toward the future, Kindler noted that the REC master engineering survey includes plans providing facilities capable of service eight times as great as is presently required.

The cooperative maintains strict financial records and forecasts to

City Invited
To Join in Celebration

S. J. Fischer and all personnel at the Rural Electric office at 159 E. Franklin St., along with Manager Darwin Kindler and members of the board of directors invite all Circleville neighbors to join them this year in celebrating the 25th anniversary of South Central Rural Cooperative.

The entire group feels Circleville and Pickaway County have played a prominent role since the inception of SCREC in 1936 and the first stringing of lines here in 1938.

Members of the staff feel mutual benefit has resulted through close cooperation during the 25 years of successful South-Central operation.

Organization spokesmen today declared they are confident this same fine relationship will prevail in years to come.

provide maximum service and safety for its owner-members. Kindler stated "The board of trustees, management and personnel work with the idea that not only must we provide rural people with electric power, but we must . . . stimulate and assist the growth and development of the entire area which we serve."

Walter Rase, Route 4, Circleville, a dairy farmer, observed that "A farmer couldn't operate now without electricity."

MRS. FORREST Wolf, Route 1,

Laurelville, commented that "We have used electricity in practically all of our farm work. We plan our future growth on the basis of our electric service."

Kindler noted that as farm operations continue to grow, so will the Rural Electric Cooperative.

School Aid Bill Gets Approval

Labor Panel Boosts Kennedy's Request

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee has approved a $255-million federal school aid bill. This was $252 million more than President Kennedy recommended.

The controversial measure was cleared on a 12-2 vote after the committee had adopted a new formula for distributing the money. The new plan was worked out late at a conference attended by administration officials.

Senate sponsors of the bill would not say that the White House had approved the new higher spending figure.

The legislation is to be taken up on the Senate floor starting next Tuesday. Its backers are confident they have the vote for passage. Last year the Senate cleared an even bigger measure by a 51-34 vote.

The Senate is to act first on the measure although lengthy hearings also have been held in the House.

The committee revised the grant formula to go back to that used in the school bill passed last year by the Senate.

The principal change was to include private school pupils in the count of a state's enrollment for the aid purposes. There is no money in the bill for private schools, however.

The chief effect of this is to increase heavily the aid for such states as Pennsylvania and Michigan which have large parochial school enrollments.

The bill also includes an equalization formula based on state income so that the poorest states will get three times as much per pupil as the richest one. The range is from $9.26 a pupil for Connecticut to $27.77 for Mississippi, South Carolina and Arkansas.

Money would be available for school construction or teacher salaries, or both. A state could set aside 10 per cent of its allotment for special educational projects.

Engineers Toot Against Proposal

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—This industrial center has a goodly number of railroad facilities, and at 10 a.m. sharp Thursday railroad engineers all over town started tooting their whistles.

Authorities and the Lorain Journal were deluged with telephone calls. Some people thought the whistles signaled a major disaster, they thought it might be a Civil defense alert.

Investigation determined that the tooting was just another blast in the current battle between the railroads and the trucking industry. Engineers were protesting Senate Bill 1197, which the railroads say would force them to increase rates, permitting truckers to get back some of the auto-hauling business that the railroads have taken recently.

Cleveland Tech Team To Beat In Track Test

Dash Ace Holds Key To State Event Due In Columbus May 26

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The flying feet of dashman Mel Orr, and outstanding quartets in the mile and half-mile relays, could give Cleveland East Tech its 14th state Class AA championship in the Ohio high school track - field meet May 26-27.

A comparison of the best times registered this year in scores of dual meets and other relays compiled by Ed Chay of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, indicates the Scarabs are the team to beat in the annual fixture.

Orr is tops in the 220-yard dash with a 21.3 clocking, and is only a step behind Mansfield's Henry Weaver in the century. Weaver has done the 100 in 9.8 seconds, a tenth ahead of Orr who has been matched by Akron Buchtel's great Barry Sugden and Sandusky's flashy Ben Espy.

East Tech's half-mile relay team has gone in 1:28.4, well ahead of defending champion Cleveland Glenview's 1:29.2. In the mile relay East Tech's 3:22.9 is far in front of Berea's 3:24.7.

Figure East Tech for a dozen points in the relays, and Orr for 10 to a first and second in the dashes, and the Scarab could take it all, Mansfield figures to pick up 17 points and Sandusky 16. Springfield South, winner of both the Mansfield and Ohio Wesleyan Relays, comes up with only 10 points on the "best performance" chart, but the Wildcats are expected to be on or near the top when the chips go down.

Here are the best times and distances this year, as figured by Chay.

100-yard dash: Henry Weaver, Mansfield, 9.8; Mel Orr, Cleveland East Tech, 9.9; Ben Espy, Sandusky, 9.9; Barry Sugden, Akron Buchtel, 9.9.

220-yard dash: Orr 21.3; Sugden, 21.8; Weaver, 21.9.

440-yard run: Sugden, 49.4; Ken Robinson, Cleveland East, 50; Chuck Crawford, Dayton Roosevelt, 50.2; Tom Fugate, Springfield South, 50.3.6.

880-yard run: John Kolovich, Cleveland St. Joseph, 1:58.8; John Skurek, Berea, 1:59.1; Hank Altewielg, Euclid, 1:59.2.

Mile run: George Brose, Dayton Belmont, 4:23.2; Dave McCann, Cleveland St. Edward, 4:29; John Kolovich, Cleveland St. Joseph, 4:31.1; Warren Hand, Dayton Roosevelt, 4:31.3.

120-yard high hurdles: Bob Fogle, Marietta, 14.3 (better state mark of 14.4 by Mansfield's Lou Wadlington in 1951); John Henderson, Dayton Roosevelt, 14.6; Glen Dreyer, Berea, 14.6; Herb Erickson, Akron North, 14.6.

Lewis Relatives Send Park Gifts

Circleville Park Board officials today announced the receipt of a number of recreational items from six relatives of the city's "claim to fame" — Ted Lewis.

Included in the gift, in honor of Lewis and his wife's 40th wedding anniversary, were baseball bats, softball bats, baseballs, softballs, a volley ball, four badminton sets, a football and a set of bases.

The gifts have been stored at the main shelter house in Ted Lewis Park, and are available daily to the citizens of the area from Park custodian Bernard Thompson. Two badminton sets have been erected and rackets and birds also may be obtained from Thompson.

Donors of the gifts were Mr. and Mrs. Max Friedman, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Callif and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schoenbaum, all of Columbus.

MR. and Mrs. Friedman are a brother and sister-in-law of Lewis, respectively. Mrs. Callif and Mrs. Schoenbaum are nieces of Lewis, being daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Friedman.

In other board action, it was decided to lay gravel in a lengthy area bordering the Ted Lewis Park outside basketball court to provide parking facilities. Sturn and Dillard, Route 1, have agreed to furnish clay and sand to scatter beneath all swings, merry-go-rounds and sliding boards for the protection of the children.

Outdoor, all-steel tennis court nets have been ordered and received. They presently are being stored at the Park until such time that they can be installed.

Ludwig Haacker, 166 E. High St., temporary chairman of the Park Board, said today additional lights needed in the outfield on the Ted Lewis Park main diamond have been installed and are operative. This undoubtedly gives Circleville one of the best lighted diamonds in central Ohio, Park officials stated.

Tigers Defeat McClain, 9-3

6-Run 8th Inning Decides SCO Tilt

Circleville's Tigers pounced on Greenfield pitcher McCoy for six eighth-inning runs in breaking up a tight hurling duel between McCoy and CHS ace Sam Weller to ice a 9-3 SCO League decision yesterday on McClain's home diamond.

All of Circleville's blows in the spectacular eighth frame were single-base jobs, but McCoy failed to stem the flow of safe hits. Moore led off the inning after being hit by the pitcher and before it was all over 11 men had paraded to the plate for CHS and six crossed home with tallies.

The contest had been shoved into extra innings when Greenfield scored a single marker on George's double in the bottom half of the seventh.

Previously, McClain had picked up single tallies in the third and sixth innings. The Tigers scoring had been limited to one run in the fourth and a pair in the sixth before their eighth-stanza bombardment.

WELLER struck out a trio of men and walked as many. McCoy fanned three opponents and issued two walks.

Miami Trace will provide the next opposition for the Tigers in a game scheduled here May 16. May 19 they are at Franklin Heights and Wilmington will come here for a May 22 encounter. Hillsboro hosts CHS with a May 24 joust on the Indians' home field.

VIVIAN GIFFORD

Girl Captures Junior Title

Vivian Gifford, 17, New Holland, would be a novice by most bowling standards, having been on the alleys for only a year.

She stopped any "beginner's luck" comments about her ability last week, though, when she took top spot in the Bowling Proprietors of America junior individual handicap tournament district qualifier in Lancaster with a 486 series.

She will go to Dayton this week to compete in the state qualifying matches. Top prizes in this competition are over $10,000 in college scholarships.

In this picture she is checking her winning district score with Larry Dietrich, operator of Circle D lanes where Miss Gifford does most of her bowling.

Booster Group Meets

The Circleville Booster Club committee assigned to study athletic facilities improvement at CHS will meet 8:30 p.m. Monday in the home of Ned Young, 280 Walnut Creek Pike.

Broncos Whip W. Jeff. 5-1 in DVL Scrap

Ashville's Broncos took full advantage of eight walks given up by West Jefferson pitcher Roberts in winning their game yesterday at Ashville, 5-1.

The Broncos had only four hits — singles by Flierl, Bainter and Kuhlwein and a double by Tom Rathburn — but utilized Roberts' wildness and a trio of West Jefferson miscues to score three runs in the first inning and a pair in the fifth.

West Jefferson tallied one run in the first inning and failed to put a man across the plate the remainder of the scrap.

Hitting for the losers were: Pelpley (4 at-bats, 1 run, 2 hits); Myers (4-0-1); Roberts (3-0-2); Shaw (3-0-2); Cunningham (3-0-1); and Whaley (3-0-1).

THE only extra - base blow for West Jeff. was a double by Roberts.

Dick Hollenback won his fifth game against no defeats for Ashville. He gave up no walks and struck out one man in going the distance. Roberts coupled nine strikeouts with his eight free passes.

The Broncos, now leading the Darby Valley League with a 3-0 slate, meet Madison South Monday.

Stonerock Squad Wins 18-0 Tilt Over Hayes Team

The Stonerock TV softball squad hammered the Fort Hayes outfit 18-0 this week in a contest abbreviated to five innings due to the lopsided score and darkness.

The game, played on the Fort Hayes diamond in Columbus, saw the Stonerock powerhouse knock out 16 hits including a home run by Turner.

Neff, who pitched three frames, and Strawver and Reed, who hurled one inning each, combined to toss a no-hitter at the Hayes squad.

The only men reaching base for the losers were two players walked by Neff. They were later eliminated in double plays.

Ohio Auto Racing Programs Readied

By JOHN F. "RED" PHILLIPS
Sports Editor, Columbus Star
(For The Associated Press)

This looks to be the season's first weekend suitable for auto racing in Ohio and probably will find all the tracks running. But they will notice some of their fans missing for again there will be several thousand of Buckeyes at Indianapolis watching the time trials for the Indianapolis 500 Saturday and Sunday.

Just two auto race events were run last weekend and one of those, at Dayton, was abbreviated. There got the time trials started for the spring race with USAC "500" drivers on hand. After 40 runs it was over, due to rain. In the short time Parnelli Jones of Gardena, Calif., set a track record of 18.31 seconds for the long half-mile oval. It is 70 yards greater than a half mile.

The other event was complete and that was the modified cars at Cleveland's Cleveland last Friday night when Mac Clingan of Cleveland and Chuck Morris of Mogadore were the feature winners.

The modifieds will run Friday night at Washington Court House, where they will try to open for the seventh time. The flying speeds will race at Kilkare Speedway near Xenia and the modifieds will also cross over the Ohio River and to a program at Huntington, W. Va.

Saturday night Powell Speedway will have the modifieds and they will also race at Atomic Speedway at Waverly while the late models and amateurs try for the fourth time at Canfield, Bordering Ohio there will be modifieds and sportsmen at Ohio Valley at Parkersburg, W. Va., at South Park near Pittsburgh and at Lawrenceburg, Ind.

On Sunday the rained-out $2,500 opener at Columbus Speedway will be run in the afternoon. They will also race the modifieds at Sandusky, El Dora at Rossburg, Knox-Vernon at Mt. Vernon and at Portsmouth. The late models will race at Cleveland.

The drags strips will be busy this week for they will hold a southern Ohio championship at the Raven Rock strip at Portsmouth and the season's first run for national record will take place at Dragway 42 at West Salem. Hyde Park at Newark will run both Saturday night and Sunday and on Sunday they will also be at the Pacemakers at Mt. Vernon and Kilkare near Xenia.

In motorcycle circles a lady took the honors last week when Virginia Nye of Delta was the hi-point winner in the Carey 50-mile poker run. She beat out a field of 119 entrants one of the largest on record in Ohio.

The three-star race meet at Lawrenceburg, Ind. was rained out but Ronnie Ball of Mansfield hurried back home to be winner in the scrambles there along with Don Mathias of New Philadelphia, Jim Novak of Mansfield and Charlie Hawk of Athens, in their respective classes.

This week the flat track riders will be seen in a three-car meet at Toledo where they race at the Continental Speedway on the Michigan-Ohio state line. At Lancaster they will hold a sportsman hill-climb that was rained out. It goes rain or shine this week.

There will be scrambles at Salem, Norwalk and Springfield. It will be an endurance run at Pomeroy and over at Fort Wayne, Ind., there will be a poker run.

NEW YORK (AP)—There are dangerous mines in the fertile fields of guest-starring on television program, particularly in the variety shows.

Carol Channing, the tall comedienne with a devastating gift of mimicry has visited all around the circuit and has learned about them the hard way.

"If I have my own show, I'll find me a writer or writers who I feel understand me and the way I work," she explained. "But if I'm a guest-star, I have the job of trying to get somebody else's writer to produce material that I can work with. When I'm on somebody else's show I have to get this across not only to the writer, but to everybody else."

This is often difficult, Carol concedes, and her material sometimes suffer because of a wide spread belief among writer, particularly, that all tall women comics should be sarcastic and capable.

"It never occurs to them that one could be naive, bewildered or fumbling," she explained. "And it's difficult to walk up to them and try to explain yourself and your style."

Carol has found an ideal intermediary for the explaining job: her husband, Charles Loew, once a producer of the "Burns and Allen Show."

"Don't think of Carol as big and tall," Lowe tells writers: preparing for her guest-shots. "Think of her a tiny and fragile. She's the poor little match-girl, only he's happy."

If the surroundings of the Hollywood part of Tuesday night's Emmy Awards show on NBC look familiar to the feminine viewer, it's because it will be coming from the Moulin Rouge, the night club from which on week days houses "Queen for a Day."

Pained Hands Of Veterans Make Poppies

"The proud and symbolic product of the unsteady hands of our hospitalized and disabled veterans" was the way Commander Morley Thomas of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3331, described the Buddy Poppy which his organization will put on sale here Friday and Saturday.

"The sale will be just one of many thousands being held throughout the nation during the month of May," Commander Thomas said.

In the hospital wards and lobby rooms of Veterans' Administration Homes and Hospitals all over the country, men in pajamas and bathrobes have been busy for many months now making the artificial memorial flowers symbolic of those who gave so much during time of war. They are hoping and praying that all Americans will wear the flower of remembrance when Buddy Poppies are placed on sale here.

Many of these men are working with partially paralyzed or deformed hands, some in wheel chairs and others in bed. They get immense satisfaction from the work.

THE mechanical ingenuity required takes their minds off their own pain and loneliness. Several of the men work at benches turning out many flowers a minute. But into each Buddy Poppy goes personal attention.

For many years Veterans Administration hospitals have recognized the making of the Buddy Poppies as helpful therapeutic rehabilitation. Each Veteran working at making them is paid a nominal amount for each one.

The remainder of the money collected from the sale goes to aid them in other ways, and for welfare work among the widows, orphans and dependents of deceased comrades.

Shaw Named Reserve Grid Coach at CHS

Jim Shaw, 119 Parkview Ave., has been hired as the new reserve football coach at Circleville High School.

Shaw is a former head basketball and baseball coach at Atlanta High School and a guidance counselor teacher at Williamsport High School. He assumed the Williamsport post after Atlanta and Williamsport consolidated.

Shaw will replace reserve coach Jim Lint who has been moved up as a varsity assistant to work with ends and tackles. Lint replaces Jack Weikert who was named head basketball coach several weeks ago.

Weikert, dropping from the football staff, previously worked with ends and tackles.

CARL K. BENHASE, head grid coach, said John Adler will remain as guard and center coach and that Dick Fisher will retain his job as varsity backfield mentor.

Benhase said Paul Sarchet will remain as junior high grid coach. He said Sarchet was offered the reserve post but had to refuse due to a summer job at the Pickaway County Club swimming pool. The pool job is still open when the football practice season starts in August.

Benhase named Jack Cook as student publicity director and assistant trainer. Mickey Dumm will be head manager, assisted by David Cupp, Phil List and John Barnhart. Dick Lamb will serve as head trainer.
